

7 Things I Wish I Knew Before College

Written by Bill Tsuda

Good morning, UNAN! Today is Friday, February 1st, 2019.

This will be the last morning speech for the third year students. Soon they will graduate, and many will go to college. So, here is a list of seven things that I wish I knew before college.

1. College is the freest time you will ever have. Use that time wisely because you will never get it back.
2. Don't be afraid to try new things. Take that random class that interests you. You never know what you might discover.
3. Go outside and hangout with new friends. Don't get stuck in your room.
4. Express yourself. You can show the world who you truly are.
5. Sleep is just as important as studying. Make sure to sleep eight hours every night.
6. Call your mom and dad sometimes. They are worried about you.

...and...

7. It's better to fail when you're young. Now is the time to explore your goals and take some risks. If you don't succeed, just pick yourself up and try again.

Congratulations to the third year students. You have completed your high school journeys, and now you will move on to a new chapter of your lives. I wish you all the best in college. You are the leaders of tomorrow. The world is yours. Take care of it.
